News of interest to alumni, parents and friends of Father Duenas Memorial School

Nov. 1995 - Jan. 1996

FDMS Earns Highest Accreditation from W.A.S.C.

“The Western Association of Schools and Colleges [WASC] is happy to announce the action taken by the Accreditation Commission for Schools wherein Father Duenas Memorial School was granted a six-year term of accreditation. This action was taken after a careful study of the Visiting Committee report which outlined the stellar aspects of the school.”

This announcement by WASC, the regional accrediting commission for Guam’s private and public schools, comes as a positive testimony that the FDMS tradition of excellence is alive and well today.

FDMS’ previous visit from WASC was in March 1992 at which time they reported the achievements of the school and the challenges it faces. Since that time FDMS succeeded in implementing all of the 1992 report’s recommendations which has earned the school a six-year accreditation, the highest accreditation offered by WASC.

In preparation for WASC’s most recent visit, Mr. William Roth, Principal, tapped Mr. Bob Bonifacio to serve as Chairperson of the Self-Study Steering Committee. The Steering Committee was responsible for directing the work of several other committees (continued on page 4)

First Issue of The Phoenix Tradition Mailed to Over 1600 Alumni

Congratulations on receiving the first issue of The Phoenix Tradition, a quarterly newsletter published by Father Duenas Memorial School. The idea of organizing this newsletter began back in February 1995 as a way the broader FDMS community, namely the alumni, could be able to keep in touch with each other and up-to-date with the advancement of their alma mater.

At that time, the principal, Mr. William Roth, asked Jeffrey San Nicolas ('84) to take charge of designing the newsletter and organizing a mailing list for its distribution. After several months of work and not without the help of many individuals, FDMS is now ready to provide its community with an informative and engaging newsletter: The Phoenix Tradition. This first issue is expected to reach over 1600 alumni which is close to 2/3 of all FDMS graduates. An additional 500 copies will be sent to parents and friends of FDMS.

This newsletter will be providing information about reunion events, alumni sports tournaments as well as an “Achievements” sections and a “Passages” section where alumni can find the latest news about their classmates. In this first issue, over 120 alumni and affiliates have already put the “Achievements” and “Passages” sections into good use. If you have news to share for the next issue due out in February 1996 just fill out the enclosed card and mail it in to FDMS.

In addition to covering alumni news, The Phoenix Tradition will also focus on providing up-to-date news about what is happening on the FDMS campus today. Entitled “Campus Life”, this section will highlight the activities and accomplishments of some of the newest members of the FDMS family, our students. It will also feature past and present faculty, administrators and staff who have dedicated themselves to furthering our school’s ongoing goal of excellence.

We hope you enjoy the newsletter. Please write to us and let us know what you think. We’d love to hear your comments and suggestions. ▼

Dear Alumni and Supports,

It is a real pleasure to address you in the first publication of The Phoenix Tradition. This newsletter, this communication, is a first step in keeping you abreast of what is going on at your Alma Mater. It is an attempt to keep you informed not only with the school but with classmates and old friends.

As I've said this is a "first step," and I'll begin by asking your help. We want this publication to go out to as many of our alums as possible. If you know someone who has not been reached, encourage them to drop us a line or give us a call.

Correspondence must be two way. Let us here at school know what news interests you most. What news would you like passed on to your friends and classmates. Has there been any new additions to the family or new job positions which other alums should know about?

I encourage you to help the school increase the community spirit among the alums. The pride felt by a Duenas grad must bring us together to support the Alma Mater and see that Duenas continues to offer the best in Catholic Education.

We here at FDMS send our best wishes and blessings to you and your family in the coming Christmas season.

Second Annual Archbishop Scholarship Fund Banquet a Growing Success

On Saturday, September 2, 1995 more than 200 people from diverse sectors of our community on Guam turned out for the Second Annual Archbishop Scholarship Banquet. Organized by the Catholic Education Office (CEO) to provide scholarship assistance to deserving students attending Guam's Catholic schools, the banquet is proving to be a remarkable success.

As a result of the pledges and contributions made by the participants at the dinner, the Archdiocese is expecting to make the scholarships available as early as December 1995.

Last year the Archbishop's Scholarship fund offered approximately $14,000 in scholarships to deserving Catholic school students. One of which was a student from FDMS.

These scholarships make it possible for students to attend Catholic schools who otherwise would not be able to attend for financial reasons. Any FDMS student in good standing may apply for the '95-'96 Archbishop Scholarship at the school's office.

Father Duenas Memorial School offers its sincere thanks to the many generous and dedicated benefactors who are making the Archbishop's Scholarship Fund possible. ▼

Citibank Awards Four-Year Scholarships to Two Catholic School Students

by Lou Sablan

Two Catholic School students are recent recipients of partial Scholarships granted by Citibank. The scholarships, valued at $1800 for each student are renewed yearly for four years.

In August, Mr. Patrick Kehres, Citibank Assistant Vice-President of Marketing and Sales, and Mr. Joe Soriano, Citibank Vice-President of Operations met with parents, students and the Director of Catholic Schools, Sr. Regina Paulino, SSND, to confirm their intent and to discuss details of the award.

The deserving students are Denise Caasi, a freshman at Notre Dame High School and Ian Wyatt, a freshman at FDMS.

Citibank sees their role as partners in the giving of these funds. The student's progress will be reviewed yearly and they will be guaranteed summer employment with the bank as part of their scholarship benefits. ▼

FDMS offers its appreciation to Citibank for their support of Catholic education and the youth of our island.

In February 1995, one hundred FDMS students successfully competed in the American High School Mathematics Examination (AHSME) to earn FDMS its third Certificate of Merit from this national competition in the past three years.

Jose Santz, Jerome Aguon, Hisatsugu Ichikawa, Donald De Leon and Joon Shin. The Class of '96 high scorers are: Stephen Ting, Roy Raqueno, Chang Yi, Kristopher Deleon, Ling Chi Huang, Andrew Sun, Deok Song, and Shihfu Huang.

All of the faculty and staff were also involved in the process as well as many parents and students. Through their work, FDMS provided the visiting WASC representatives a thorough 174 page report describing the school's goals and educational endeavors.

Parents & Community Surveyed

Part of the preparation for the self-evaluation report included surveying parents and the broader community. These surveys helped provide an objective perspective on how well FDMS was fulfilling its educational goals. We are pleased to share with you the following responses:

When parents were asked which of the following influenced your decision to send their son to Father Duenas Memorial School, their answers were: (Parents could select more than one answer to this question.)

- 94% Good Education
- 77% Discipline/Moral Education
- 66% Healthy/Safe Environment
- 51% Religious Training
- 20% Athletics

89% of our parents regarded the academics offered at FDMS as moderately or highly challenging and interesting.

Other comments were:

"My opinion may not be very important, but [FDMS] remains as one of the best, if not the very best, places to send our children to learn."

"Teachers go beyond their duties like offering tutorial services. Kudos to them!"

"[FDMS] is well managed and focused on preparing students for college. Past graduates have gone on to college and have returned with great success in private and public sectors."

"You are doing a great job now. Stay the course."

While the above responses represent a favorable sample of comments, the comments of those parents who expressed concerns with one or more aspect of the FDMS program were also incorporated into the self-study.

6. the administration and staff for their high level of academic expectations for student achievement.
7. the administration for bringing about stability and a harmonious climate among the staff, students, and parents.
8. the administration, staff and

The entrance of the new six-classroom building constructed in 1992 after Typhoon Omar destroyed the old "Quad". WASC commended the school for its timely response.

Major Commendations and Recommendations

Based upon WASC's evaluation of the school's self-study report and based on their personal visits with many parents, students, and faculty members, the Visiting Committee commended FDMS on several accounts and also offered recommendations for improvement. The report stated:

"The Committee commends:

1. the administration and staff for the excellent quality of the Self-Study document.
2. the FDMS students for their academic achievements, and their positive representation of the school.
3. the Archdiocese, the administration, the staff, and the Parent Advisory Board for their success in reconstructing the facilities after Typhoon Omar.
4. the administration for developing a thorough interviewing process that stresses the philosophy and mission of the school.
5. the administration, librarian, and Parent Advisory Board for rebuilding the library lost through the typhoon in such timely manner.

booster clubs for their success in obtaining funds to assist the athletic programs."

The recommendations offered by the WASC visiting committee focused on continuing the good work that is taking place at FDMS. They included the following:

1. to continue improving the school's facilities and library resources.
2. to continue recruiting teachers who share the philosophy and mission of FDMS.
3. to invite a broad representation of the community in the development of FDMS' master plan.
4. to offer four years in each of the foreign languages to better prepare students for college admissions.
5. to create a long term staff development program that will foster greater success in student learning.

The entire school community owes its appreciation to the administration, faculty, and staff as well as the parents, students, alumni, and many friends of FDMS. These many individuals have blessed and continue to bless Father Duenas Memorial School with its rich tradition of excellence. Si Yu'os Ma'ase. ▼

National Merit Scholarship Semi-Finalists Announced

Congratulations to Marcelo N. Illarmo ('96) and Deok Y. Song ('96) for advancing to the National Merit Scholarship Semi-Finals. Illarmo and Song are among the top one-half percent of more than one million college-bound seniors who took the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT) in the fall of 1995. While the National Merit Scholarship Program recognizes approximately 50,000 academically outstanding students each year, only about 15,000 received the honor of advancing to the Semi-Finals.

As Semi-Finalists, the Merit Scholarship Program will be sending Illarmo's and Song's name to four-year U.S. higher education institutions so that college officials can contact them about admission and scholarship opportunities that may be available to them. ▼

Second Annual FDMS Alumni Golf Tournament

This year's FDMS Alumni Golf Tournament held on July 3rd and 4th marks the tournament's second year of support for our alma mater, and according to the tournament organizer, Frank Arriola '79, plans for the third FDMS golf tournament are already on their way!

As an opportunity for many alumni and friends of FDMS to contribute to the school, this year's two-day event raised $10,630 which will support the athletic program and the capital improvement of FDMS.

In addition to the financial benefit, this year's tournament held at the Hatsuhō International Country Club in Dededo proved to be a great time for camaraderie, reunion, and a whole lot of fun.

The FDMS community extends its gratitude to the organizing committee, the corporate sponsors, and the more than 220 golfers who participate in this year's FDMS Alumni Golf Tournament. ▼

Stigmatine Era Remembered and Honored

Through a series of events held between July 14 and July 24, 1995, many FDMS alumni, students and dignitaries on Guam remembered and honored the Stigmatine priests who founded FDMS in 1948.

The idea for organizing the events came after many alumni of the 50's and 60's received the sad news of the passing of Father Joseph R. Morgan, C.S.S., one of the founding Stigmatine priests of our Alma Mater. The honored guests of the events were Fathers Charles Egan, C.S.S. and Gerald Goggin, C.S.S., two of the companions of Father Morgan who also taught at FDMS during its founding years.

FDMS offers its special thanks to Joe R. San Agustin '54 (coordinator) and the Executive Planning Committee who took the leadership in planning the program of events. ▼

Father Joseph R. Morgan, 1916 - 1995, was among the first five Stigmatine Priests who laid the foundation of FDMS in 1948

Reflections on the Stigmatine Years

The Phoenix Tradition contacted Joe R. San Agustin '54 last month for an interview regarding his remembrance of the Stigmatines at FDMS. Joe was instrumental in organizing the program of events honoring the Stigmatine priests this past summer. What follows are some of San Agustin's reflections on the Stigmatine era:

What years did you attend FDMS?

I was 14 years old when I started my freshman year at FDMS in September of 1950. Is was the third year that the school had opened so it is pretty accurate to say that I was among FDMS' pioneer classes.

What are the names of the Stigmatine priests who taught at FDMS during your studies there?

I'll go a step further in answering this question, and tell you who the original pioneer Stigmatine priests were who came out to Guam at the invitation of Bishop Baumgartner in 1948 to start FDMS. They were: Fathers Gerald Goggin, Charles Egan, Joseph Morgan, Ellsworth Fortman, and Leo Geraci. Of these five, only Fathers Goggin, Egan and Geraci are alive. They are all now staying at their Stigmatine retirement home in Waltham, Massachusetts.

When I entered FD in September 1950, Fathers Ellsworth Fortman, and Leo Geraci had already returned to the States. In their place, Father Paul Daly and Father Henry Linse had arrived in 1949, and Fathers James Flanagan and Edwin Kelly had joined the staff. There were 7 Stigmatines on board when I came in 1950.

Father Daly, incidentally, was the Stigmatines' religious superior in 1948 when he was contacted by Bishop

Fr. Egan & Fr. Goggin pose with alumni at a reception at the Government House. (L to R) Manny Perez '61, Pete Guerrero '53, Fr. Bibi Arroyo '53, Fr. Egan, Jose Apuron '54, Sen. Mark Forbes '71, Raymond Aguon '50, Jose R. San Agustin '54, Manny Q. Cruz '57, Joseph Barcinas '52, Juan Baza '53, Fr. Goggin, and Tony Aguon '59.

Baumgartner to staff FDMS, and he was the superior who sent out the original five priests. He joined them the following year.

Over the years that I was at FD (1950-1954), Father Charles Egan returned to the States in 1951, and other priests came to join the staff at FD from that time to 1959 when the Stigmatines finally left the school. Other priest who subsequently joined the staff included Fathers Charles Sinesi, Louis Antonelli, Arthur Cerino, Nicolas Spagnolo, Joseph Mantia, Daniel Cernauskas, Robert Kenniston, and John Ford.

Overall, how would you characterize the atmosphere at FDMS created by the Stigmatine? (Tense? Strict? Close community?)

The atmosphere at FDMS created by the Stigmatines was neither tense nor strict, at least according to our standards. Perhaps, compared to today's generation, things were very strict and tense then. But to us who lived through it, it was part of our formation.

There was discipline which was instilled in us as the way in which to achieve greatness, that unless a student is disciplined to do what he has to do to succeed in life, he will not. With discipline, of course, came rules which were imposed on us to follow. Viewed in today's standards, these rules were strict, but to us in was part of our lives.

As seminarians we followed a regular routine of prayer, work, study and physical activities. There was a time to play, a time to work, a time to recreate, and a time to pray--and each segment of our routine was geared toward the development of a the full man.

There was definitely a community and a family spirit developed within our group. We cared for each others successes and failures. We rejoiced when some of us succeeded; we were sad when others failed.

How would you characterize the academic and spiritual atmosphere at FDMS?

years there was one of seriousness in our educational pursuit. It was instilled in us that we were there at FD to learn (and as seminarians to prepare for the priesthood), and unless we devoted ourselves to our educational pursuit, we have no business being there.

Our spiritual life was filled with prayer at different stages of the day: meditation and Mass in the morning; spiritual readings in the afternoons; rosary and Benedictions before dinner; readings during the first part of our meals; spiritual reading and evening prayers before we retired; Vespers on Sundays.

Despite our heavy prayer life, our schedule also incuded lots of time for study and recreation.

The scholastic courses we took were college preparatory courses, all geared toward preparing us for further studies in college. We were taught Gregorian chant on the side.

Basketball was the only popular sports at the time (not football), and baseball to a lesser degree. Almost everyone whose health could stand it was encouraged to participate in sports.

What do you appreciate most about your studies and life at FDMS with the Stigmatines?

- the fact that the Stigmatines took special interest in each of us, treating us as their own sons, and encouraging us (even in individual cases) to pursue our chosen careers;
- the fact that the Stigmatines didn't seem to separate themselves apart from us like they lived in a different world than ours. We played basketball together; we went on picnics and outings together; we recreated together. They made themselves as accessible to us as possible, yet maintaining a distance so as not to lose the respect that they deserved from us;
- the fact that they made themselves available to us for counseling and advice, both scholastically and spiritually;

We knew we had friends in them.

What do you appreciate least about your studies and life at FDMS with the Stigmatines:

I really can't think of any!

Are there elements of your experience of FDMS with the Stigmatines that you would hope has continued at FDMS even until this day?

I wish that the tradition of EXCELLENCE for which FDMS had always been known will become fully evident.

I don't know what it is now, but I remember in my days that if a student fails any two subjects in any two successive quarters, he's out! That might seem like a very harsh criterion, but we were always taught that "FDMS is a top-notch school whose scholastic standards are high, and where you come to learn," and if you can't handle it - sorry!

Many parents (in those days) sent their sons to FDMS because of the discipline that they knew will be instilled into their kids. I don't know if that still exists today, but I sure wish that the element of DISCIPLINE is still foremost at FDMS.

I was always proud of being an FD student in my day because everybody talked about how high-caliber a standard is set there. Our professors (all priests) became not just our teachers, but our mentors as well. We looked up to them, and they inspired us to greatness.

Are you still proud to be graduate of FDMS?

Bet your bottom dollar, I am! I am extremely proud of my teachers, their credentials, their dedication, their friendship, and their moral influence on me. ▼
